Not illustrated. 1872 Excerpt: . . . not resist, for fear of being beaten with their clubs, which they held in their hands. On reaching the lock-up, I turned to two friends, Randolph ud Johnson, both colored men like myself, and who had followed me from the club-room j-ihe lock-up, and asked them to keep for me the keys of the club. An officer of the police at once seized the keys, saying, No, they shant have them; well keep them (otwiTes. I was then conducted to a cell and locked up; I had been there some little tiie. when Edward Erwin, a member of my club, was put in with me. About one and a half hours later I was bailed out by Colonel W. Roy and Captain William Wright. The itt moming I appeared before Recorder Webber, and no charge buing against me, I was ifinred to go. On the 27th of July, 1871, I, as president, called a meeting of the Tenth Ward Club, to which Lieutenant Governor Dunn, Speaker Carter, and others, were invited to (deliver addresses. On reaching the club at half past six oclock p. in. , half an hour before the time of opening, I found men belonging to the street-gangs, and not residents of the ward, in Csion of the seats. The gang appeared to be under the lead of Red Hill McMickle, i as a desperate thug. Within five minutes after my entrance, a crowd of men, not embers of the club, tilled the...
